APPALACHIAN QUILT TRAIL

SHOP SMALL. GIVE BIG.

The Appalachian Quilt Trail has been supporting local businesses and driving tourism to those locations since the trail's inception in 2004. This time, though, we are targeting our very own residents. You're probably not a stranger to the "shop local" movement that is sweeping society, but did you know all these great shops were in your back yard? By shopping small and local rather than at the bigger chains this season, you are not only giving great gifts to family and friends; you are also giving back to your community and the local economy. Use this guide as a reference when choosing where to do your holiday shopping this year because when you shop small, you give big.

This is NOT a comprehensive guide. We have chosen 100 stops (both on the AQT and in the surrounding area) in the region to include in this guide. You'll notice some stops are actually more than one place because East Tennessee is bursting at the seams with great small towns and Main Streets that offer several shops within walking distance.

The AQT stretches across the state, but the East Tennessee area holds the oldest part of the trail and our headquarters, so it was our starting point for this promotion. While various criteria were considered to pull these particular stops, our main goal was to represent a variety of venues, products, etc. geared specifically at holiday shopping.

This is our first time producing this guide, and we have not requested financial support from any of the businesses, which is why phone numbers and specifics are not listed. If your favorite shop or a shop you own is not present, feel free to contact us so that we can make an effort to grow this guide for next year. As always, thanks for your support of these great local businesses!

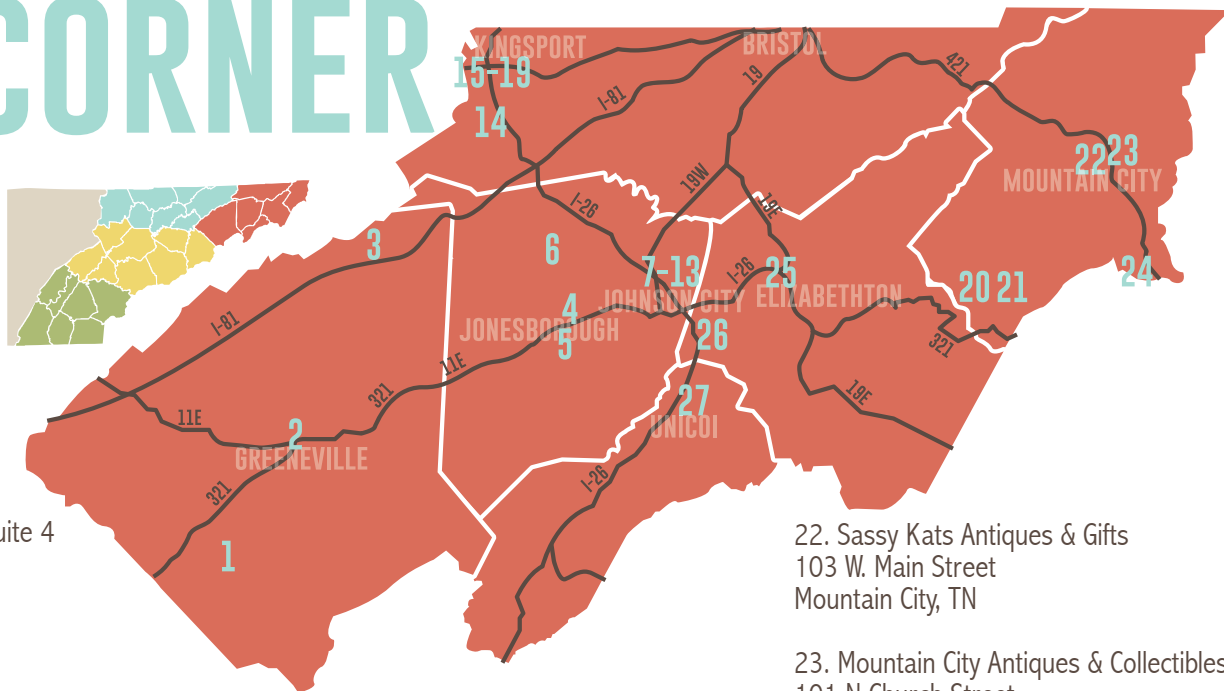

Don't forget: November 29 is Shop Small Saturday!
